2. To identify and develop the individual skillsets of each woman through vocational training allowing them to pursue and succeed in a career that suits them.
3. To help women to learn life and survival skills that help them to adapt and thrive in their communities, and give them the self-confidence to do so.

- Living a hand-to-mouth existence in low paid, dangerous or demeaning work.
- Undereducated and low skilled, and unsure how to move beyond this.
- Carrying the responsibility of supporting children and family upcountry with very low wages.
- Leading a lifestyle that is damaging their self-confidence, health, and their relationships with children and family.

Mission of the Foundation

The Foundation mission is to capture the generosity of donors and volunteers and transform it into free high-quality training and support for underprivileged women, inspiring a new generation of confident, motivated and resilient women.

The Foundation aims for Prathanadee's women to be actively seeking to realize their career and work aspirations by:

- Securing higher quality employment with better working conditions.
- Securing a promotion or a pay rise.
- Taking on further training or education to meet their career goals.

Training in the Bangkok Foundation

The Foundation organizes a training course for women in Bangkok once a week. Currently, about 150 women are attending the training. In addition, training was provided to female students studying at the secondary level in Bangkok, aged between 13-18 years old, in order to learn to take care of themselves.

If they want to find work in a big city, the Foundation provides training to those target groups approximately 3,000 people a year. The training program has been successful in training more than 15,000 women and youth.

Training in Ubon Ratchathani Province

Since 2000, the Foundation has been helping women in Bangkok, most of which are from the north-eastern region Thailand, so in 2011 the office was established. The branch is located in Ubon Rachathani Province. The mission of Ubon office is helping prepare and support girls with skills and knowledge. They need to be able to protect themselves and lead an economically successful career before moving to the city. The Foundation has organized training for female students studying in secondary school in Ubon Ratchathani province, aged between 13-18 years. The program has been successful and training more than 10,000 people.

Training Program

The Better Me Program

In 2016, The Foundation launched a new core training program: The Better Me Program.

Women at the Foundation now have access to career and personal development training to help set the right attitude and provide tools for success.

Better Me lifts women up. It lets them know that they can be more, and then it provides them with the tools and the support to become more. There is nothing else quite like it in Bangkok. It is built on 15 years of trial and error.

Better Me creates real empowerment: an internal and positive change in each woman, so that she can go out and change her life herself. The program includes four core elements:

Develop Vital Skills

30 hours of career and personal development training, covering topics such as Self-Assessment, Goal-setting, Women's Law and Rights, Self-Defense, Managing Your Money, and Getting the Right Job for you.

Learn Basic English

25 English lessons, taking students up to Level A1 in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages, and helping them to access higher levels of employment in Bangkok.

Personal Mentoring Sessions

A female mentor with regular one-to-one sessions to provide personal help and support throughout the program.

A Welcoming Community

Supportive staff, a computer lounge and library, and a welcoming center in the heart of Bangkok.

Survival Guide

The Foundation believes violence in all forms have an impact and can be perpetrated by both men and women, no matter of age, gender, social class, or racial background. As a society, we cannot only focus on protecting oneself to become victim of the violence but we must work together to prevent the violence from happening.

Thus, the Foundation has created a website to educate people in the following aspects:

- Violence and Sexual Harassment
- Domestic Violence
- Legal Rights: What are my rights in these situations?
- Legal Rights: How do I report an issue?
- Who can help me and where can I access help?

Good Wishes Guide

This manual has been created to compile a list of agencies that can seek help in times of danger including fundamental rights according to the law and rights when faced with domestic violence. Nowadays, hazards can be found in many forms which may occur in daily life, especially for women, the manual has divided the danger into 3 categories as follows:

1. The dangers of technology. It happens through the use of social media and various applications, which if use without knowledge or if we are not careful, we can become a victim of threats such as phishing, a fraudulent internet request asking important information such as password, ID card number.
2. Threats from theft and crime can happen at any time, any place. Always being careful and cautious will reduce the chance of theft and crime.
3. The threat of infringement of rights and liberty may affect the body, mind, mood, society and lifestyle of the victim, including society and community. The World Health Organization defines actions intended to have these effects on others "violence".
