Summary

HHN Foundation Thailand has established Drop-in Center in year 2010 to provide shelter and primary care to children who need help. Drop-in Center is located in central of Pattaya City which is convenience and accessible for children who need food, consultation and safe shelter. Drop-in center can immediately provide basic necessary things such as food, shelter, clothes and medicine (not less than minimum standard of Ministry of Social Development and Human Security year 2006). Additionally, there are consultation services or rehabilitation for children who need to be protected according to The Child Protection Act such as children who used to be in human trafficking, violence against children and children who are vulnerable to misconduct. For consulting process, Drop-in center works together with children and family together with persons in many professions in order to plan and determine guideline for problem solving. Family and children will participate in all decision making process under guideline and method of social work profession such as The UN Convention on children's rights, The Child Protection Act. 2013, Domestic Violence Protection Act 2007, Anti-Trafficking in Persons Act 2011 and related laws, giving priority to maximum children's benefit.

In 2014, United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) and Japan Embassy of Thailand sponsored mobile car or Mobile Training Unit to support field work in various areas under the name MTU (Mobile Training Unit) with objective as public relation media to create awareness to children and youth in many places such as construction site, congested area, school, public and private units that take care of children. MTU concentrates on activities for development of life skills, self-protection from being exploited in various ways, create awareness and understanding of family violence, and drug problem in order to enable children to live in society. During year 2014- 2016, nearly 5,000 children participated in activities of MTU.

From the field work during year 2014-2016, there were more than 2,000 transnational children and youth whose parents migrate to work in Pattaya City (Annual Report 2015-2016). Those children could not access to government services such as education, health care and nutrition which impact their quality of life and way of living.

HHN Foundation Thailand realizes that many problems have impact on children and youth therefore HHN set up an education center for transnational children called HHN Asean Education Center within Drop-in Center under financial support for the first year operation (2016) from German Embassy of Thailand and will receive financial support for the next 2 years (2017-2018) from Rotary Club of Eastern Seaboard and Rotary Club Dolphin Pattaya International. The education center will serve 80-100 transnational children of age 3-12 years. Objective is to promote education to children in mixed classes by teachers who pass training program in child development including Thai teacher, volunteer foreign teacher, Cambodia teacher and Myanmar teacher. Children will practice and develop language skills, communication, life skills, and basic skills. Additionally, there are recreation activities that enable children to have good health, proper development and be able to apply those knowledge and skills as basic for further learning and living in the future. During January - June 2017, over 120 transnational children (in-out) came to study at Asean Education Center.

In 2017, field work team of HHN Foundation Thailand created a Child Protection Card Game having teachers of Faculty of Learning Science and Faculty of Education, Thammasat University, as advisors. The game is a simulation of situation in form of card game (simulation game) with the objective to create self-awareness to children for protection of being tempted in various ways. We believe that the best way to protect children from being tempted is that children must have the idea and skills in evaluation of situation, decide and solve problem in critical situation by themselves. Such game becomes master game in academic seminar on game and problem solving arranged by Thammasat University and Banpu Plc at Bangkok Art and Culture Center. There are more than 500 attendants of innovators, scholars, and students.

Moreover, HHN Foundation Thailand present the Mobile Training Unit project and Child Protection Card Game for the competition in Social Impact Awards 2017 organized by The Resource Alliance and was awarded as a Finalist Most Innovative Campaign. We are proud to that we are not only a problem solver for children but also work proactively to create knowledge and social innovation for protection of problem that may happen with children and youth.

1. Work of Drop-in Center for children and family

Main objective of Drop-in Center is to support children who need help according to The Child Protection Act, 2013 having status as the first place to temporary help children of not more than 90 days in order to search and analyze children and their families and to determine way of help and proper welfare protection in the future. Drop-in Center also help mother and child who encounter difficulties in their life and work together with community to enhance disadvantage people in community to be able to access to various public welfares. Moreover, Drop-in Center grants scholarship to children who have no money to obtain equal education opportunity.

During January – June 2017, Drop-in Center helped children, youth and no-status people totally more than 60 persons as follow:

1.1 Provide shelter Drop-in Center assists children who suffered difficulties in life to have safe shelter, good nutrition food and proper education. During January – June 10 17, government and private units such as foster house, police station, hospital and many foundations in Chonburi province sent totally 6 children to Drop-in Center under the following reasons 1. Broken family and children are in risky environment, a total of 4 persons 2. Sexual harassment by family member, a total of 2 persons.

Drop-in Center already provided primary assistance to all children and coordinated with for long-term protection.

1.2 Assist children and family. Drop-in Center realized that family is the most important thing in children's life. Taking children from their family will be the last decision. Therefore, Drop-in Center assists family of children to be self-reliance and be able to take care of children. Drop-in Center visits their houses to evaluate assistance to children and families. There are 3 types of assistances:

- Scholarship grants. Drop-in Center grants scholarship to students with moderate to good performance but stay in poor family. At present, Drop-in Center grants 1 -year scholarship to 6 students in elementary and secondary level of Baht 1,000 -1,500 / month and 1 student in university level of Baht 2,000 / month. Additionally, Drop-in Center grants 15 scholarships per year for Warm Family Project of YMCA Association, Pattaya Center, of Baht 30,000/year and annually grants 30 scholarships to students in congested community.

- Family grants. Short-term assistance within 1 year to family who face difficult life such as single parent, broken family, income less than expense, or having young baby. At present, Drop-in Center provides family grants to 5 families at Baht 1,500/family.

- Provide necessary consumer goods. To provide basic consumer goods for those who need immediate assistance such as people who just left prison, homeless people, jobless people, mothers who just gave birth and have no money to buy milk and diaper for baby. Drop-in Center grants consumer goods a total of 10 persons/month to initially relief their trouble.

1.3 Give advice and assist on personal documents. Those people who are in trouble could not obtain government services as they do not have documents to confirm their rights. Drop-in Center therefore provides advisory and coordination services to get many rights such as

- Process on identity card
- Help people who have no status
- Process on social security card
- Operate to obtain rights for various privileges such as senior allowances, disable allowance.
- Process to take children in congested community to school.

During January – June 2017, Drop-in Center worked on documentation of rights for over 15 children and families.

2. Asean Education Center Work

Situation on children and youth have always been changing especially in 2016 when Thailand become a member of Asean Economic Community causing migration of labor from neighboring countries of Thailand. Pattaya is one of cities that these labors come to work for construction of building, condominium and others. These labors come together with family and children.

Under activities of MTU, there were more than 2,000 children of migrant workers (Annual Report 2015-2016) who could not access to education and public health services. Those children have to stay in construction sites or camps which are vulnerable to their safety particularly when their parents go out to work.

On June 16, 2016 HHN Foundation Thailand together with Rotary Club of Eastern Seaboard and Rotary Club Dolphin Pattaya International had a meeting to find development guideline for transnational children in Pattaya and establish an education center within Drop-in Center under the name of HHN Asean Education Center to provide education to transnational children in Pattaya City and nearby area. The education center can serve 80-100 children of ages 3-15 years. Children will study about basic skills, Thai, English, Myanmar and Cambodia languages and also will develop mathematics and life skills. Children will have basic knowledge and be ready when they have to go back home to their own country.

Table 3: Statistic of children who attend services of Asean Education Center

According to above table, during January – June 2017 there were approximately 120 children (in and out) at Asean Education Center comprising Cambodia 65% and Myanmar 45%. Those children came from 5 labor camps including 21-rai Camp, AD Na Klua Camp, Home & Pool Camp, VKK Camp, and 1 scatter group.

Daily Activities

Asean Education Center takes care and safeguards children's welfare at day time. It is also a learning center for educational development for children to have proper development according at their age level and to have the ability to read-write and communicate. Asean Education Center promotes activities to develop life skills, to have immunity for life and to live happily in society. Teaching class is scheduled from Monday-Friday during 08:30-16:00.
